It's always good to know what you're buying before you pay, but for puzzles like mine, that presents its own dilemma.

I have to be honest — these are not going to suit everyone. If they're not your thing, then they're not your thing. No judgements are made. The sooner we establish that, the better.

If, however, you are looking for something that you can muse over, something you can mull and something that might ultimately deliver a real sense of achievement, then these might just hit the spot.

To help you find out, I have written a sample puzzle on the back of this card.

The puzzles proper are a pretty varied lot, so writing a "typical" puzzle is difficult. They do tend to share a few features, which this one does also.

To add a little excitement, the solution to this sample will work as a discount code on the website — can't say fairer than that.

Good luck,

Dan
